

Press Releases

September 2021

Strategic Acquisition of Leading Australian Based Firm, BCA Logic, Expands Jensen Hughes' Global Market Leadership via Strengthening its Ability to Service Clients in Australia

BALTIMORE, September, 2021 – Jensen Hughes, a global leader in safety, security and risk-based engineering and consulting, announced today its acquisition of BCA Logic (“BCAL”). The market leader in bca, fire protection engineering, and access in Australia, BCAL specializes in building code compliance, risk assessment, fire engineering, access and performance-based design in complex commercial, industrial, infrastructure, transportation and tunnel projects.

“BCAL owners and directors Allan Harriman, Stuart Boyce and their team have built an impressive business focused on providing high-quality building consulting services. We are honoured to have the Australian specialists join us in supporting our clients’ fire and life safety requirements wherever they operate in the world with integrated, end-to-end solutions,” says Raj Arora, CEO, Jensen Hughes.

BCAL is the most recent strategic acquisition by Jensen Hughes, a portfolio company of Gryphon Investors, that reflects the company’s long-term commitment to deliver its integrated, end-to-end services to the global market. The acquisition enhances Jensen Hughes’ robust, Asian / Australian fire protection, code compliance and access capabilities. It also strengthens Jensen Hughes’ ability to help clients in the fire, building and safety industry and implement global best practices to manage these in a prevention-oriented and cost-effective manner.

“We are delighted to be joining forces with Jensen Hughes as they are a highly complementary and leading engineering and consulting business with deep channel penetration, broad market exposure and a growing global footprint. Importantly, BCAL is the first acquisition for Jensen Hughes in Australia. We are especially excited to be joining Jensen Hughes as we see the opportunity to accelerate our growth at a much faster rate than if we were ‘going it alone’. We see our business growing through expanded service channels, broadened end markets, and selling consulting services across a combined larger customer base”, says Allan Harriman and Stuart Boyce, Directors, BCA Logic.

MergerMarket Press Release

BCA Logic, an Australian-based building consulting firm for bca, fire engineering and access, has been acquired by leading US firm Jensen Hughes LLC.

"BCAL owners and directors Allan Harriman, Stuart Boyce and their team have built an impressive business focused on providing high-quality building consulting services. We are honoured to have the Australian specialists join us in supporting our clients' fire and life safety requirements wherever they operate in the world with integrated, end-to-end solutions," says Raj Arora, CEO, Jensen Hughes.

BCAL is the most recent strategic acquisition by Jensen Hughes, a portfolio company of Gryphon Investors, that reflects the company's long-term commitment to deliver its integrated, end-to-end services to the global market. The acquisition enhances Jensen Hughes' robust, Asian / Australian fire protection, code compliance and access capabilities. It also strengthens Jensen Hughes' ability to help clients in the fire, building and safety industry and implement global best practices to manage these in a prevention-oriented and cost-effective manner.

"We are delighted to be joining forces with Jensen Hughes as they are a highly complementary and leading engineering and consulting business with deep channel penetration, broad market exposure and a growing global footprint. Importantly, BCAL is the first acquisition for Jensen Hughes in Australia. We are especially excited to be joining Jensen Hughes as we see the opportunity to accelerate our growth at a much faster rate than if we were 'going it alone'. We see our business growing through expanded service channels, broadened end markets, and selling consulting services across a combined larger customer base", says Allan Harriman and Stuart Boyce, Directors, BCA Logic.

Under the deal BCA Logic's existing shareholders will join the larger Jensen Hughes group.

PwC, Alliant, Mercer and Hamilton Locke Lawyers advised Jensen Hughes, while Quest Accountants, Landers & Rogers Lawyers and Mergers & Acquisitions advised BCA Logic.