BGIS is very pleased to announce the acquisition of Fire Services Queensland (FSQ), providers of fire service and system maintenance services in Queensland and northern New South Wales. FSQ offers a comprehensive range of fire protection services, including design, installation, servicing, maintenance, training, and compliance support across various residential and commercial sectors. The range of services cover the testing, installation, maintenance, and certification of all fire safety systems such as fire detection and smoke alarm systems, fire extinguishers, fire doors, passive fire protection and penetrations, sprinkler systems, emergency lighting, fire hose reels, hydrants, tanks, and fire pump sets. FSQ also provides evacuation training and procedures.

FSQ's team of 75 employees is led by James Norman, Managing Director with the head office located at Chermside, Brisbane. The capabilities include electrical technicians, portable / passive technicians, wet fire technicians, compliance managers and business support services. FSQ services clients in the key sectors of health transport, commercial and infrastructure. For further information, please visit <https://www.fireservicesqueensland.com.au>
